

It would be a tragic mistake not to keep this law in place. When the law was first coming into effect, I was one of the first to sign up on the list. The calls you receive from these telemarketers at the most inopportune times are most disturbing. It has been a sheer delight not having my phone ring off the hook with someone trying to sell me something then, becoming quite indignant when I don't want to buy.